

Saturday March 13, 2010 10am to 5pm

Pendleton Art Center 214 N Main Street

What's your vision for the future?

What does the community need to thrive and prosper?

How can we work together?

Building Community Wealth

Local People, Local Ideas, Local Solutions

If you don't know where you're going, any road will get you there.

We need a destination; we need a roadmap. We need you to help envision a sustainable future for our community and help develop practical and creative solutions at our Building Community Wealth assembly. This isn't about meetings or producing documents that sit on the shelf and are never used. This is about action.

In the Building Community Wealth assembly, we as a community will develop a plan for homegrown prosperity by identifying local resources and engaging local initiative and talent. This process emphasizes the triple bottom line: people, profit and planet. Jeff Goebel, a veteran facilitator in consensus building will facilitate. We need people from all walks of life for this effort, so all are encouraged to attend.

The event is free and open to the public. Lunch will be on your own. The Pendleton Art Center is a block from downtown and many restaurants are within walking distance.
